221	"Yes," he breathed, and kissed her. It was fast-but her face was flushed, and her eyes wide as he pulled back. ...She'd looked so surprised, and if he didn't get out, he was likely to kiss her again.
249	He did not move, didn't do anything but stare- seeing her exactly how she saw him- as she grabbed the lapels of his tunic, pulled his face down to hers, and kissed him fiercely.
341	It had been two weeks since that night she'd kissed him, two weeks since she'd started creeping up her after the castle had gone to sleep. They'd been sharing a bed, though not in the manner he still yearned to.
342	He kissed her again, soft and lingering, and her body melted into his. He savored the silkiness of her skin as he ran a hand down her arm.
449	The cold air nipped at her bare breasts, a bite that was nothing compared to the terror and agony as a whip cracked and-
