

THERE'S NO SUCH THING AS VEGETABLES

Easy Reader

By Kyle Lukoff

ISBN: 978-1-250-37119-5

Book Summary:

A young boy is repeatedly told by various vegetables, they do not belong in the vegetable category.

Summary of Concerns:

This book contains controversial social commentary.

1
/5

Child Guidance
BookLooks Review Rating

Page	Content
27	"Don't think too hard about language and how every word you say is just a collection of random sounds. They don't actually mean anything."
30	"...Say anything enough times and it'll stop sounding like a real word.*" *The term for this is "semantic satiation."
33	One kind of category is called a social construct. Social constructs are ideas that groups of people invent together. Social constructs are real, because they affect your experience of living in the world. But they are also made up, and aren't "real" ... ...Asking questions about these categories can help you figure out which social constructs help and which social constructs hurt. And asking those questions can also help you change them,...